Abstract:

Moral degradation of youth is an important problem of contemporary India, although its seed was rooted in long past. At that time, the problem was not as acute as it is found in today's India. There are so many reasons of moral degradation among which realization of social values has been playing a, crucial role. In addition, ongoing social problems have significant imprint in increasing moral degradation of youth with passage of time and space. In past social organization of the then society played responsible role in framing and implementing value based moral responsibilities. Now at present society has been feeling conflict regarding value-based moral degradation particularly of youth and in realism, it cannot be denied that there is no ideology in the society which can bring them a value-based livelihood. Thus, moral degradation is being complex gradually
